

交通部民用航空局飛安公告

Aviation Safety Bulletin

ASB No:105-053/O

Sep 23, 2016

Subject:

The air operator shall advise the crewmember to keep awareness of fatigue management during rest period before flight duty. The crewmember shall report flight duty with proper rest condition to minimize possible threat to flight safety.

Description:

Recent cases indicates that the crewmember had alcohol beverage when in rest which arise the concern of fatigue before flight duty, and personal behavior involved illegal event when layover in outstation that led to flight delayed.

Recommendations:

1. For the flight safety, the air operator has established rules and prohibited activities prior to flight duty, all the crewmember are expected to comply with those company policies.
2. The air operator shall follow regulations to schedule crewmember with proper rest period before each flight duty, the crewmember should be aware fatigue management and ensure rest properly in that period before flight duty.
3. To comply with the AOR article 199, the air operator has established program to ensure crewmember will not violate regulation. The crewmember shall not engage flight duty if he or she is in doubt of possible violation of AOR article 199.
4. There are significant states law differences among countries. The crewmember shall behave without violate local laws, to avoid the flight delayed due to crewmember illegal event.